DR. PATRICK SHIH

Dissecting and reconstructing plant metabolism with synthetic biology

The Shih lab aims to develop synthetic biology tools to expand our understanding of plant metabolism. A basic understanding of the evolution of metabolism will guide novel approaches to engineering metabolic pathways for applications in agriculture, sustainability, human health, and bioenergy.